Thank you for saving my boy

A MOTHER has thanked the "amazing" staff at Addenbrooke's Hospital for saving her son's life.

Ethan Mason, 3, lost both his legs after contracting meningitis but his mother Lorraine cannot praise highly enough the doctors and nurses who battled to save him.

Ethan's ordeal began on Halloween last year when he was rushed to hospital after suffering a seizure. A small rash, diagnosed as septicaemia, soon covered his entire body and he was given just hours to live.

But doctors at Addenbrooke's paediatric intensive care unit stopped the multiple organ failure and placed him on dialysis for three weeks.

Almost a year later, Ethan is now walking with false legs, attending nursery with other children and looking forward to an independent life.

His mum, Lorraine Abderraziq, said: "Everyone at Addenbrooke's was amazing – it's a fantastic hospital.

"They saved my son's life and I can't sing their praises enough.

"I was never left in the dark about what was happening and they talked me through every step. Even little things, like the auxiliary nurses who made sure I had coffee and tea, make such a big difference.

High praise: Ethan with his mum Lorraine

"Some parents criticised certain things while I was there. I felt very annoyed about that – I couldn't fault them at all.

"I'm still being supported a year on by WellChild, a children's charity. Their nurse came and had a cup of coffee with me and let me know that I wasn't alone."

Ethan's heartbreaking story has now attracted the interest of WellChild ambassador and Dragons' Den panellist Duncan Bannatyne, who visited the family's home in Helions Bumpstead to film a BBC charity appeal.

The appeal, which was broadcast last weekend, included Lorraine's tribute to the charity's Cambridgeshire nurse Lucy Andrews, who is based at Addenbrooke's.

Lorraine, a single mum of four, said: "It was quite bizarre having Duncan Bannatyne in my kitchen. He was very friendly and down-to-earth.

"He even ended up making himself a cup of tea as I was filming in the other room.

"Lucy has been my lifeline – she is amazing. We can't imagine being in the position we are now, all of us back home together, without her help."

To donate to the WellChild Nurse appeal, go to www.wellchild.org.uk or phone on 0845 458 8171.

Titanic TV presenter role for welder Dave

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PICTURE a television presenter and someone with nicely-groomed hair, a glowing tan and unnaturally white teeth will probably spring to mind. So it's fair to say that Dave Wilkes, a 54-year-old welder from Haverhill, isn't your typical telly totty.

But despite being a tattooed granddad, Dave is the unlikely star of new Channel 4 documentary Titanic: The Mission. And even he is surprised at his sudden fame.

"The other day I was driving down to a roundabout and I heard these kids screaming and shouting – I nearly had a heart attack!" he says.

"I thought I'd run over their dog or something; I imagined I'd get out and find this great big flat thing under me wheel..." But no, it was just some of his (many) new fans squealing in excitement.

Dave is one of the four presenters of the hit five-part series, which celebrates the thousands of unsung men and women who designed, built and served on the ill-fated liner.

So far the engineering foursome have recreated a section of the ship's colossal bow, made a replica of its 20-ton anchor and put on a first class-style feast – and Dave has found himself doing everything from coal-mining to preparing delicate plates of food.

"You do one thing and the next minute you do something else, and you think: 'Cor, you can't beat that', and you can, every time," he says. "I loved everything about it."

Although he's a bona fide Cockney, Dave moved to Haverhill 30 years ago, and until recently was happily working at one of the town's engineering firms: "But the old boy who was running it decided to call it a day.

TV FAME: Dave Wilkes.

He just said: 'Sorry lads, that's it, so we got made redundant.'

Dave wasn't too worried: "Another door always opens," he grins, but his wife wasn't very impressed. "I just got under her feet, basically. Every day she would politely say: 'Look, there's a job here...'"

But it wasn't until March that she spotted an advertisement that sparked Dave's interest: "She was looking through one of the Sunday papers to see what bands were playing, and it just happened to be among the adverts. It said something like: 'Engineers wanted for project about the Titanic'. She went: 'Here, this is more up your street, something a bit crazy.'"

Dave rang the production company the following day, and they asked him to send a photo. But rather than putting on a shirt and tie and striking a pose, he sent one his wife had taken at a recent Led Zeppelin exhibition: "I've got me hair down, big beard, old denim jacket, me bum out of me trousers," he grins.

But even if the photo didn't swing it, Dave's CV probably did. As a former steel erector, his work had taken him to great heights – literally. He even worked on what was once the tallest skyscraper in Canary Wharf: "They found that quite amusing. I think it's because it wasn't the sort of job the average everyday guy does," he shrugs.

Heading down to London to meet the producers, Dave wasn't sure what to expect: "and they stuck a camera on me when I walked in. I thought 'Blimey, what's this all about?' But I found it quite natural; it didn't bother me, being in front of the camera."

Shortly afterwards, they called him back for another screen test, this time at a garage.

"They just wanted to see if I could interact with people. I was fortunate there because the guy at the garage dealt with Alfa Romeos, and I'd just bought one. So I went 'I've got one of them!' and that was it, I was his best mate, so we just had a rabbit and a laugh. And then they said I'd got the job. It was brilliant."

Dave admits he didn't really know much about the Titanic: "Well, only what everybody knows – great big ship, very flash, loads of luxuries, and it sunk! But once I got the job I started reading bits of books. I know quite a bit now..."

Filming began at the end of April, and while it's clear they had fun making the show, the foursome worked incredibly hard too. Recreating the jobs done by our forefathers in the docks, foundries and mines was, says Dave, a real eye-opener.

"I've learned that we can think ourselves extremely lucky, the way we are at work now, especially after going down the mines and getting an idea what it must have been like for them to be stoking coal all day long, day in, day out, never seeing daylight."

One particularly poignant moment was when an historian looked into Dave's own family history; it transpired his grandfather was an East End coal merchant who literally worked himself to death: "Poor old sod died when he was 36," says Dave, who was seen shedding a tear on the show.

"No matter how hard your job was, or even if you knew it was going to destroy your health, you still had to feed your wife and kids. People these days whinge that they haven't got enough money, but none of us are really hard-pressed."

So what does the future hold for Dave? "I'm just going to take it easy for a while. Obviously if another series comes up, that would be brilliant. But who knows?"

In the meantime, he's happy just to watch himself on Monday nights ("although I sometimes look at it and think: 'Cor blimey, you should've gone on a diet before you started it!')". And even though he now gets recognised every day, he's refusing to get big-headed: "My missus won't let me," he grins.

"No really, a lot of people would let it go to their head, but I'm just me. The reason I got the job is because what you see is what you get. It's no good trying to change me accent and trying to be a little bit posh; I've got a cockney accent and that's that. You can't be anything other than what you are, can you?"

■ It took nearly three years to build RMS Titanic, the largest and most technologically advanced man-made moving object in the world.

■ Tens of thousands of workers contributed in some way, from the shipbuilders, engineers, riveters and electricians who built her to the designers, carpenters, cabinet-makers and artists who created her opulent interior.

■ Four days into the crossing from Southampton to New York City, on April 14, 1912, she struck an iceberg and sank in the early hours of the following day, resulting in the deaths of 1,517 of the 2,207 people on board.

■ The high casualty rate when the ship sank was due in part to the fact that, although complying with the regulations of the time, the ship carried lifeboats for only 1,178 people.

■ On September 1, 1985, a joint American-French expedition located the wreck of the Titanic.

■ On April 15, 2012, the 100th anniversary of the sinking of Titanic is planned to be commemorated around the world.

Happy birthday: Ann Merrigan with volunteers and supporters celebrate the fifth anniversary of Christians Against Poverty.

Charity marks anniversary

A CHRISTIAN charity which helps people with debt problems has celebrated five years of working in Haverhill.

Christians Against Poverty (CAP) launched its centre in the town in October 2005, in partnership with River of Life Community Church, and has helped more than 200 people since then.

Projects manager Henry Wilson and his team of support workers have been giving a free, face-to-face service in the community, backed up by financial experts at CAP's head office.

Henry said: "We have so much to celebrate. In a recent survey, a third of clients said they were seriously considering suicide before they were helped, so knowing we have saved lives for the past five years is fantastic.

"The work has been very challenging, but nevertheless rewarding, and I consider it a tremendous privilege to have been involved in so many people's lives, we get to see the burden taken away, we see homes saved from repossession, relationships restored and so many other issues addressed along the way.

"It is also through our work with CAP that we began to see the need emerging for other projects, in particular Haverhill Foodbank.

"While more than 200 people in the area have experienced our service, there are still so many more who are being hounded by creditors while there is nothing in the cupboards. I would urge anyone in the local community to contact us if they are concerned about their finances and we'll see if we can help them too."

The anniversary coincides with a change in management. Henry moves on to oversee and develop all the REACH projects and hands over the role of CAP manager to Ann Merrigan on Sunday.

Ann is also involved with the recently opened REACH Resource Centre and the Foodbank in Haverhill.

She said: "After being involved with CAP since 2007, I now feel ready to take on this vital and challenging work. My hope is that I will be able to continue the excellent service that Henry has offered over the past five years."

Cuts will lead to tough times

COUNCILS and other public authorities have warned of tough times ahead after the Government announced its comprehensive spending review yesterday.

Funding cuts of 7.1 per cent a year for the next four years will hit councils.

CLlr John Griffiths, leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "The impact on council funding is not unexpected and we have been planning for months how to deal with it.

"We have already looked carefully at every service and budget and will continue to do so in the coming months, but we will not know the exact impact until we receive complete information on our grants from the Government later in the year. I do know that councils and local communities will need to work together to come up with different ways of sharing responsibilities, providing and paying for services.

BY JOHN GOODE

"St Edmundsbury has consistently delivered efficient, good quality services and huge investments in our local economy while keeping Council Tax rises to very low levels. We will continue to minimise our Council Tax burden on residents, notwithstanding the impact of these funding cuts. Two years ago we saved 6.4 per cent from our budget, last year we saved 6.7 per cent - St Edmundsbury is good at making savings and we will continue to do so."

Suffolk's Chief Constable Simon Ash said: "We know that we are facing an unprecedented financial situation which will see millions of pounds cut from the policing budget.

"It's going to be a tough challenge, particularly as we are already an extremely efficient force with one of the lowest costs per head of population. However, it's a challenge we are ready to face and we have already made progress in addressing the funding gap.

"The Chancellor has indicated that the police service will have a four per cent cut to its funding each year for the next four years. However, the exact implications for Suffolk will not be known until later.

"We receive our detailed budget allocation later next month or possibly December."

Job cuts have been predicted in all public authorities. But no decisions have been made in advance of more detailed information from the Government.

Farming Minister opens new village green

FARMING Minister Jim Paice has opened a new village green.

Camping Close, in Linton, was officially designated a village green by Mr Paice, MP for South East Cambridgeshire, on Saturday after a successful campaign by residents.

It follows a bid by Linton Infants School to fence off part of the green, making it unavailable for public recreational use.

The green's new status means the area is preserved for public use, preventing further 'land grab' bids.

Chairman of Linton Parish

Council Esther Cornell: "Camping Close had been used by village residents for as long as anyone could remember. With help from the Open Spaces Society, the parish council was able to substantiate its application with considerable evidence."

Refurbished fire station reopened

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HAVERHILL'S refurbished fire station has been officially reopened.

The station in Lordscroft Lane, Haverhill, underwent a major facelift between September last year and May of this year.

During that time the fire engines moved out to a unit on the town's Lime Grove industrial estate.

Now it has been reopened as a community fire station by Cllr Rae Leighton, Suffolk county council's portfolio holder for public protection.

One of the major changes has been converting a former upstairs flat into a mess room and a meeting room which can be used by community organisations.

The station has nine full-time crew members and 20 on-call, formerly retained, crew as well as two fire engines – one a pump rescue tender with equipment for use in road crashes – as well as an operational support unit for dealing with chemical incidents.

Any groups wanting to use the community room should call Suffolk fire headquarters (01473) 260589 for more details.

Prof Chip is a winner

A CHARACTER drawn by students at a Haverhill school could be following in the footsteps of Bob the Builder.

Students at Samuel Ward Upper School and Technology College have drawn Professor Chip, who has been created by Roland Peters who previously worked on Bob the Builder scripts and design.

The design has passed the first stage judging and will be considered by Roland Peters with other entries from across the country before he chooses a winner.

The winner's name will be included in the credits and they will be taken on a tour of Pinewood Studios.

Neil Williams, head of art at Samuel Ward, said: "This is another wonderful opportunity for our students to get hands-on experience working with professional artists."

Character created: Georgia Pemberton, 13, shows the design of Professor Chip.

Free bus travel hit by cost cutting

FREE bus travel for pensioners is to be restricted by a council as part of cost-cutting measures.

Holders of free bus passes in Suffolk can currently travel in the county at any time. But the county council's Cabinet has decided that the "only affordable option" is to provide the statutory national scheme of free travel between 9.30am and 11pm on weekdays. Bus pass holders will still be able to travel free all day at weekends and Bank Holidays.

There will be a taxi voucher scheme for people who are eligible because of the remoteness of their homes or due to disability.

The changes are due to take effect from April 1.

Bus pass holders will receive a letter explaining the changes and there is an information line on 0845 600 0659.

Trading fears may see factory plan rejected

PLANS for a multi-million pound out-of-town redevelopment at a former factory site could be blocked because of fears it could hit town centre trade.

Council planners are recommending rejection of HPG Developments' proposals for the former Project Office Furniture site in Haverhill.

The Cambridge-based company already has DIY chain Wickes lined up to open a store on the site at Hamlet Green.

The scheme includes four retail units, a builders' merchants, a restaurant, nine warehouses and 11 business start-up units.

HPG has said the scheme could provide up to 260 new jobs. The company has also offered £250,000 towards town centre improvements.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

But St Edmundsbury Borough Council planners said, in a report to a special meeting of its development control committee which will be held in the town today, that the positive aspects of the scheme do not outweigh the "adverse impact" it will have on the town centre.

The report says: "The local planning authority is particularly concerned about how the proposal would impact upon the independent traders which operate within Haverhill town centre and the role which they have in terms of viability and vitality of the town centre."

"The retail advisors for both the applicants and the council consider that Haverhill town centre is fragile and under-performing and this has been at the forefront of (council) officer concerns about these retail units being built on the out-of-centre site."

The planners have said there are other sites in the town which are more suitable for shopping developments and which should be given a chance to be built first.

The report says: "In conclusion, whilst it is recognised that there are benefits from this scheme, it is considered that the principle of the development, where it proposes retail uses, is unacceptable."

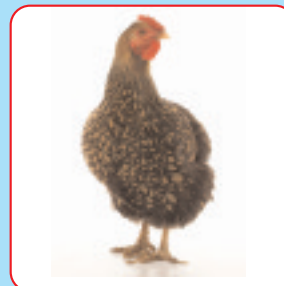

The committee is due to make a decision on the scheme at the meeting, which is being held at Haverhill Community Sports Association's building in Chalkstone Way, starting at 10am.

Responder scheme has charity status

Sir, The editorial last week informed your readers that the Community First Responder Schemes throughout Cambridgeshire have been transferred under the management of the Ambulance Trust. However, what it did not clearly state is that the CFRS continues to have charitable status.

The Haverhill Scheme started in 2002 and the good people of the town donated the funds to buy all of the kit and to maintain our training under the clinical guidance of Magpas – to whom we are immensely grateful. During the intervening years the Ambulance Service agreed to replace consumable items used on patients but the cost of capital items still has to be paid for from charitable funds. This will not change and we hope that the people of Haverhill will continue to support us.

Community First Responder Schemes are additional to the ambulance service. The team members are unpaid volunteers who are trained and equipped to attend patients with potentially life-threatening conditions and treat them until the ambulance arrives.

The Haverhill scheme members have given many thousands of hours and treated several thousand patients in Haverhill and the surrounding villages over the past eight years. We believe we provide a valuable service to our community.

If you would like to support us either financially through our charity or join the team as an active member, please contact me on 01440 713443, or email Margaret.marks@talktalk.net

LAST week's Memories picture has prompted some information to be sent to the Weekly News.

The fourth woman from the left sitting at table is Mrs Lennard. She worked at Pye Telecom, Lordcroft Lane, Haverhill, in the late 1950s or early 1960s. The woman on the left is Louis Wilson, and the woman on right with black hair is Betty Coote.

Third from the left is Maggie Crompton, of Willow Close, Haverhill, who volunteered to help out on the day.

The photograph was taken in December 1986.

■ The Memories photograph published on October 7, from our archives, showed a sponsored obstacle course at Hamlet Playgroup in Haverhill in March, 1987.

Reader Jannice Clowes, from Haverhill, who was the leader of the group for a number of years, writes: "The picture was taken in the old hall when Hamlet playschool (now Little Wonders of Westfield School) was holding a sponsored morning in aid of the group. "I am standing there holding the hands of my daughter Susanna (who now has three children) and her friend Esther Fowler, both aged 2, waiting their turn."

Modern and trad flower arrangements entertain guild

THE Townswomen's Guild was entertained by Jane Coe.

She gave a demonstration of various methods of flower arranging, both traditional and modern.

Jane gave the displays she had created as prizes in the raffle and the lucky recipients were delighted to win them.

Members were asked to consider signing a TG Federation petition against the abolition of cheques, which is scheduled by banks in the future.

They were also asked to fill Samaritans Purse shoe boxes, to be returned at the October meeting.

The Christmas meal will be on December 14, the venue to be announced at the next meeting. The guild is holding a fundraising dance at the Leiston Centre on November 13 at 7.30 - 10pm. Tickets are available at £2.50.

The next meeting at the West End Congregational Church, Withersfield Road will be on Tuesday at 7.15pm, and will be the harvest supper.

New members and guests always welcome.

Views sought on plans for new parking restrictions

NEW parking restrictions could be on the way for Haverhill as a consultation gets under way.

Details of the proposals by Suffolk County Council are due to be revealed this week with residents invited to have their say.

A consultation period of up to six weeks is likely. The police, Haverhill Town Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council will also be asked for their views.

BY JOHN GOODE

Details of the proposed restrictions are due to be displayed in the town's arts centre and library.

Among the areas set for new restrictions is The Pigtle where residents-only parking could be introduced.

Other changes to parking regulations throughout the town are being considered including making limited parking times extend to cover more of Duddery Hill.

A county council spokesman said the proposals could be modified as a result of consultations.

Parking problems have increased in the town in recent years.

Residents' parking schemes have been considered for some areas but they have not been brought in so far.

Out-of-hours complaints fall under new operator

COMPLAINTS about the Suffolk NHS out-of-hours service have dropped during the six months it has been operated by Harmoni.

Between April and August, complaints fell by 60 per cent while compliments rose four-fold during the same period, according to NHS Suffolk.

The service also has more GPs with 132 now available from the 77 when it was originally set up.

Members of the GP advisory board for the service include Dr Andrew Cornish, of Haverhill's Christmas Maltings and Clements Surgery, and Dr Paddy Hopkinson, of Mildenhall's Market Place Surgery.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Harmoni was founded in 1996 as a GP co-operative called Harrow Medics On Call Inc and has grown to the extent that it is now the country's leading provider of out-of-hours NHS services. It is commissioned by more than 20 NHS organisations, looking after more than nine million patients from Colchester in the east to North Somerset in the west.

The telephone number for the Suffolk out-of-hours GP services is 0300 130 3066. The number for out-of-hours dental services is 0300 130 3065. Both numbers are charged at local rate.

Jobs created as business grows

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A BUSINESS formed in Haverhill a year ago has expanded to take on extra staff and open a new branch.

UK Boilercare was founded by heating engineer Sean Whiting, of Goldstar Heating and Plumbing, which has a showroom in Queens Square, Haverhill.

In its first year the business has taken on two additional engineers and has expanded to open a branch in Harlow, Essex.

The company's customers join a scheme in which they pay a monthly fee to cover unexpected major costs.

Sean, who also celebrated the tenth anniversary of Goldstar Heating and Plumbing this year, spent ten years as a British Gas engineer before he started his own business.

In 2004 he won the Institute of Plumbing and Heating Engineering's Suffolk's Favourite Plumber Award and was one of six plumbers across the UK to make it to the finals of Britain's Favourite Plumber Awards.

He said: "I wanted to set up UK Boilercare because having been a heating engineer for 20 years I see the sheer frustration customers have when something suddenly and unexpectedly goes wrong with their boiler."

"Households are struggling at the moment but people realise that if you spend a little money each month it will protect you from those unexpected problems in the future which usually come when money is at a premium. We have also been very popular with landlords who want annual safety certification."

The company's website is www.ukboilercare.co.uk

Service to remember

A SPECIAL candlelight service for people who have died will be held at St Lawrence Church, Ridgewell, at 8pm on November 2, All Souls' Day.

The service, which also involves the neighbouring parishes of Sturmer, Birdbrook and Ashen, will involve reading the names of all whose deaths have been registered in the churches in the past two years.

An address will be given by the Rev Laurie Bond, the Rural Dean, and there will be a collection for St Nicholas Hospice, Bury St Edmunds.

People can ask for other names to be remembered at the service and should contact the rector on (01440) 785355 or Christopher Ridsdill-Smith on (01440) 785340 before the service to have the names included.

Convertible damaged

THE fabric roof of a convertible sports car was slashed while it was parked in the street.

Around £200 damage was caused to the green Mazda MX5 in Burton End, Haverhill, between 6pm on Monday and 12.15am on Tuesday.

Anyone with information should call Pc Dan Steel at Haverhill police (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers 0800 555111.

Enterprising talk

GUEST speaker at Haverhill Volunteer Centre's annual meeting will be Roseanne Kilbourne, from MENTA – the Mid Anglian Enterprise Agency.

The meeting will be held at Haverhill Arts Centre at 12.30pm on Friday, November 12.

Anyone interested in becoming a committee member, or wanting to attend the meeting, should call (01440) 708444 or email info@hvc.org.uk.

Jewellery in haul

A TELEVISION together with cash and jewellery was stolen from a house.

A burglar got in to the house in Willow Close, Haverhill, between 8.25am and 7pm on Tuesday through an insecure window.

Call Det Con Mark Robinson at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100.

Girl, 11, in car targeted by vandal

A YOUTH jumped on the roof of a parked car while an 11-year-old girl was sitting in it.

Repairs to the large dent in the roof of the silver-coloured Peugeot 206 have been estimated at £1,000.

The incident happened in Queen Street, Haverhill, just after 10pm on Saturday.

After the incident the youth, believed to be 16 or 17 years old, tried to run into a nearby pub but was refused entry and ran off.

He was wearing a pink or red check shirt and blue skinny jeans.

Anyone with information should call Pc Rebecca Molisso at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.

- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.

- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.

- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.

- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Police give small shops crime advice

SMALL stores and village post offices are being given warnings by the police about robberies and burglaries which happen at this time of year.

Officers from safer neighbourhood teams across Suffolk are due to visit more than 500 businesses to give warnings that criminals could target them.

Shops in the Haverhill and Newmarket areas are among those to have been hit in the past.

It is part of Suffolk police's Operation Arctic. Neighbours and nearby residents are also being asked to be on the alert for suspicious people or vehicles.

Chief Insp Kerry Pauling, of community safety, said: "During the darker winter months, criminals can take the opportunity to prey on stores when they seem more vulnerable. We want to give post office and shop managers information they can use to protect their businesses.

"By following some simple pieces of crime prevention advice, such as locking staff doors and having good lighting outside, owners can keep themselves, their customers and their businesses safe and keep criminals at bay."

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

As well as issuing crime prevention packs across Suffolk, officers throughout the county will carry out high visibility patrols in vulnerable areas as a deterrent to criminals and to offer reassurance to those premises. Operation Arctic has run for the past three years in Suffolk to prevent and detect robberies at post offices and stores, and ATM thefts, with a great deal of success.

Chief Insp Pauling said: "It is likely that a criminal will visit the shop they want to target in the hours, days or weeks leading up to the offence. This could simply be driving past or sitting in vehicles outside. If the community acts as an extra set of eyes and ears, information passed to us could stop these visits before they become a serious incident."

Anyone who spots suspicious activity near small shops or post offices should call Suffolk police on (01473) 613500 or dial 999 if a crime is being committed.

Mapped out: student Noor Alqasim looks at the region where she travelled for six weeks.

Picture: Keith Jones 687804

Fellowship helps Noor go to China

A TEENAGE student was chosen to spend six weeks in China after she applied to join the Global Fellowship.

Noor Alqasim, applied to join the fellowship after seeing a poster at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College in Haverhill where she is a student.

She made her application nearly a year ago and was invited for an interview in London before she learned in April that she had been accepted on the Prime Minister's Global fellowship for this year.

The fellowship is aimed at young people aged 18-19 to give them experience of other cultures and to learn about the effects of globalisation.

During her first two weeks in China she stayed in Beijing and visited the Great Wall, the Forbidden City and the Olympic "Bird's Nest" stadium. She also tried learning the Mandarin language.

She moved on to Shanghai for four weeks and spent two of them with an engineering company called IMI before visiting schools.

Noor described the experience as "amazing".

She said: "The six weeks abroad was just the start, as it is now my role as a global fellow to share my experiences and raise awareness of global issues."

An inspiration: marathon runner Kirsty Millard is to tackle the Dublin run next week.

Receptionist sets target for marathon

LEISURE centre receptionist Kirsty Millard is hoping to complete the Dublin Marathon in under five hours on Monday.

In April, Kirsty, 26, raised more than £2,400 for Get Kids Going, a national charity which gives disabled children and young people the opportunity of participating in sport, by completing the London Marathon.

She completed that challenge in 5 hours 44 minutes and aims to finish Dublin in under 5 hours which would be her personal best.

Kirsty, who works at Haverhill Leisure Centre, only started running in April to lose weight after having her son Freddie.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Having never run before, she followed the Rosemary Conley running programme to gradually build up her stamina before entering the 5k Race for Life in Bury St Edmunds and the Cancer Research UK 10k with her husband Kevin.

To prepare for the marathon she has been doing RPM (spinning) classes once a week and swimming at Haverhill Leisure Centre.

Kirsty has also been doing one short 6-mile run and a long run at the weekend building up to 21 miles.

Kirsty, from Recreation Road in Haverhill, said: "I would like to complete the marathon in under five hours, beating my time for the London Marathon earlier this year.

"I have also been listening to a hypnosis CD prepared by local hypnotherapist Peter Dougherty in Haverhill which aims to help boost my confidence."

Dominic Greenwood, general manager of the leisure centre, said: "Kirsty continues to go from strength to strength with her running."

"It is an amazing achievement to go from never having run before to completing two marathons in a year. She is an inspiration."

It is the 31st year of the Lifestyle Sports - Adidas Dublin Marathon, which is run through the historic Georgian streets of Dublin.

Our little miracle weighed less than a bag of sugar

Picture of health: Samuel today, having fun in the toy library. Inset: a tender touch between mother and son shortly after his birth.

Picture: Keith Jones 683581

BOUNDING around the Cambridge and District Toy Library, little Samuel Chatfield is the picture of health. The two-year-old chatters happily to his mum, Dot, as he plays with the toys, pausing every now and again to clamber onto her lap for a quick cuddle before whizzing off to try something else.

In fact Samuel looks so bonny that it's almost impossible to believe that he was born more than three months prematurely. And, weighing just 11lb 14oz, his chances of survival were slim.

It was in May 2008, when Dot was just 25 weeks pregnant, that her waters broke.

"My pregnancy was going really well, with no problems at all, so it was a complete shock," she says.

Terrified, she rushed to Addenbrooke's Hospital where she was immediately put on bed rest, and two days later her contractions began.

"I laboured for about

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

24 hours, and then he came along," says Dot. "He was born at exactly 26 weeks and weighed less than a bag of sugar."

The moment he was delivered, Samuel was whisked away before Dot could even set eyes on him. And she and her husband Jonathan were warned that he might not make it.

"When a baby that premature is born, they know how long they can keep resuscitating the baby before it's beyond life, and they'd said to us that they'd work on Samuel for 20 minutes before making a decision," she says.

"We could see the clock from where we were, and we just watched it..."

The wait, she says, was agonising.

"At that moment you're just hoping that he's alive, just hoping against all hope, really. It's just a waiting game until they come and tell you that the baby's alive and stable."

Fortunately the news was hopeful. Samuel had rallied, and a few hours later they were allowed to see their son for the first time: "But it was three days before we were able to hold him," says Dot. And he was, not surprisingly, absolutely tiny: "His body fitted into the palm of my hand; he was very, very small."

But Samuel wasn't out of the woods yet. "He had a small brain haemorrhage when he was born, he had holes in his heart, and he needed several blood transfusions," explains Dot. "We were just living in hope that he'd continue to get stronger and that he would be all right."

Dot realised that Samuel would need to stay in the NICU (Neonatal Intensive Care Unit) for some time, but sadly they couldn't accommodate her too.

"There's only a certain number of rooms that they have there for parents, and naturally they prioritise the people who have the sickest children, and the parents who live furthest away. And because we only live in Impington we had to go home. And that was very, very difficult."

"On the day I was discharged we had to get a steriliser and a breast pump, because I was trying to give him my milk," she remembers. "And I was just so traumatised that I had to go round Tesco's with my sunglasses on, just crying because I couldn't believe I'd had to leave my little boy."

Soon though, it became routine: "You have no choice, so you just do it. Jonathan would go in first thing in the morning, and I would then go in all day, and then Jonathan would go there in the evening. So the only time he was on his own was at night. It's very difficult, but you have no choice and you just cope, knowing and hoping that one day you'll take him home."

Samuel stayed in the NICU for five-and-a-half weeks before being transferred to Hinchingbrooke for a further four-and-a-half weeks. During that time, Dot tried to be as hands-on as she could: "The staff are great at letting you do as much as you feel comfortable doing to your little ones. So we were able to change his lines, clean his mouth, change his nappies and that sort of thing. You wouldn't believe how small the nappies were!"

"They do this really good thing at the hospital where they give you a memory box of things that they've worn or had on them, like temperature probes and masks, and I've got a sample of a nappy he had on when he was born – a clean one! – and it's the tiniest thing you ever saw."

After 10 long weeks, Samuel was finally allowed to come home. "He was still really small. He was about 4lb 13 when he came home, but he was feeding properly by then."

It was, says Dot: "Very nerve-wracking, having had support all that time, but it was very nice to be home."

But this was only the start of Samuel's journey: "What they can't tell you, of course, is whether they'll be damaged in any way, whether there'll be developmental problems. Because no-one can tell you that until they start to grow," says Dot.

During his first year, Samuel was in an out of hospital quite frequently. His lungs were rather weak and he developed several chest infections: "But actually I think we came out of it very lightly; he just thrived. He got better and better," smiles Dot. "He's just normal now, really, he just gets the usual colds that other people have."

As for the holes in his heart, one has closed and the other is very small: "They will look at him again when he's 4, just to make sure it hasn't got any bigger, so they've said treat him as if he's got a normal heart. And that's very exciting because we were facing an operation at Great Ormond Street, and we're very glad we've not had to do that."

One place that Dot found to be an absolute haven was the Cambridge and District Toy Library at Addenbrooke's.

She first took Samuel when he was around 15 months old.

"He needed help with walking and crawling; he wasn't co-ordinating very well, and he was 23 months when he walked.

"The toy library has helped in so many ways; we often come away with things that help him fine motor skills, his cognitive development, and his speech. It's been great, and we go quite regularly – every couple of weeks."

Today, Samuel is living life to the full, and Dot is extremely proud of him. "He's doing very well," she says. "We're waiting for our two-year assessment, when they'll tell us then whether he's on a par with other 2-year-olds born at full term."

"But compared to his little friends that he sees, he's doing fine."

Dot still treasures her memory box: "It's good because you look back at that and you remember how difficult it was, but how wonderful it is that he's come through the other side of it all," she smiles.

"He's our little miracle."

● The Cambridge and District Toy Library loans out toys for children with special needs aged up to 7.

The toys are specially designed to help with a child's development in various areas: gross and fine motor, sensory, speech and language, cognitive, musical and imaginative play.

It is open every Wednesday from 9.30am to 2pm at the Child Development Centre at Addenbrooke's Hospital; and also at The Fields Children's Centre in Galfrid Road, Cambridge, every Monday from 12.30 to 2pm.

The Toy Library is a charity, and contributions are gratefully received; visit www.localgiving.com/cambstoylibrary to donate.

Fun and cakes served up for the elderly

PRIMARY school youngsters entertained pensioners in a meeting of different generations.

Residents from homes for the elderly were invited in to Haverhill's Couplands School for the annual event.

Pupils also served up some of the cakes they made as part of a "Let's Get Cooking" initiative.

The event coincided with the school's harvest assembly.

Teacher Angie Killingback said: "We've been doing this for a couple of years and children and the elderly people love it."

Ladies show heart – and much more!

FOLLOWING a triumphant run in the West End, Tim Firth's hit play Calendar Girls returns to Cambridge this week.

In an ordinary English village, 11 very ordinary women take on an extraordinary challenge in order to raise money for a cause close to their hearts. Some may be shy, others might not be as young as they used to be, but they all reveal great strength – as well as other things, ahem – in this small yet

Stage and screen fave Lynda Bellingham tells The Guide about dropping her inhibitions in front of the family.

Calendar Girls is based on the true story of Angela Baker and her husband John, who was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma in 1998. The bold move made by Angela and her WI friends to pose for a nude calendar to raise funds for the charity caused such a stir that their story became known throughout the world.

Many have seen the film, starring Helen Mirren, but for those who haven't had the live stage experience, now's the chance to enjoy this poignant and inspiring tale of strength, courage and friendship anew.

The cast bringing the show to Cambridge features a stellar gathering of some of Britain's most well-loved actresses, including Lynda Bellingham, Ruth Madoc, Debbie Chazen and Michelle Collins, who has stepped in as a late replacement for Bernie Nolan.

Bellingham has been playing the role of Chris for nearly a year now, but says it's one of the few roles she'd be happy to keep on playing.

"There aren't many plays that I would do again but Calendar Girls has a very special place in my heart," says the 62-year-old, famous for her roles in the likes of Second Thoughts, All Creatures Great and Small and, of course, those iconic Oxo ads. "I've never done a play where you get such a level of positive feedback – it's so uplifting. Everybody can relate to this show: people who come to see it all have similar stories to tell."

Having worked so intensively for a year with one set of Calendar Girls, it must be strange to return to the production and explore the same territory with a completely new group of people.

"It's very important that the actresses playing Chris and Annie have a very close relationship and as I've known Jan Harvey, who plays Annie in this production, for 35 years, there's a kind of shorthand between us that's a great help.

"Although it's hard not to remember the original cast, I've taken a pledge never to refer to how they did things first time around. That would be fatal."

Also new to the cast is Bellingham's son, playing Lawrence, the photographer.

"I've already told him that seeing his mother naked is going to send him straight into therapy!" she laughs.

Lynda argues that one of the reasons for the success of Calendar Girls is that it deals with a demographic that has been curiously overlooked by the artistic powers-that-be.

"It's a true story, it's about cancer, which most of us have experienced either personally or within our family or friends, and the audience is largely made up of human beings who are historically ignored.

"Everybody is obsessed by attracting the 19-35 age group which, it's believed, have that crucial spending power.

Consumers they may be but they are mostly consuming on the back of us over-50s. I also believe, without being fundamentalist or inward-looking, that this country needs to regain a sense of its self-worth and Calendar Girls celebrates both heart and a community spirit – two classic British virtues."

Rolf celebrates a life in art at gallery show

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

A CAMBRIDGE art gallery will play host to a brand new collection of original paintings by artist and entertainer Rolf Harris, who will be unveiling his work in person this weekend.

A Life In Art celebrates Rolf's contribution to the world of art, which has spanned over half a century, and also mark's the artist's 80th birthday. The exhibition is currently touring the country and on Saturday his collection of limited editions, lithographs and sculptures, plus a new book on art, will arrive at Artique in Bridge Street, Cambridge.

One of Britain's most enduringly popular entertainers, Rolf has nurtured a lifelong interest in art and sailed to England in 1952 with dreams of becoming a famous portrait painter like his grandfather.

At the age of 14, Rolf became the youngest artist to have a self portrait exhibited in Australia's prestigious Archibald Prize and later studied at London's City and Guilds Art School.

Rolf's career has covered all areas of entertainment, including working with The Beatles and gracing the stage at Glastonbury, and many of us have grown up watching him wobble his wobble board and talk to animals and their owners on TV's Animal Hospital. Yet art has remained a large part of his life.

Rolf's early television appearances saw him drawing pictures on BBC TV's Jigsaw and Whirligig and led to more successful children's TV series in the 60s, including Hi There, Hey Presto, it's Rolf and later the Rolf Harris Show. The programme, which made use of his catchphrase "Can you tell what it is yet?", was a regular until the early 80s.

More recently, to celebrate the 80th birthday of The Queen in 2006, Rolf painted the royal portrait for a BBC One programme. The painting was unveiled in December 2005 at The Queen's Gallery, Buckingham Palace and was on display throughout 2006.

Later, in his Rolf on Art Series, he looked at the work of the great masters and Rolf On Art: The Big Event saw him join forces with the public to recreate Constable's Haywain on a giant scale in Trafalgar Square.

■ A Life in Art takes place between 1pm and 4pm at Artique, Cambridge. Numbers are limited and attendance is by invitation only. For more details, contact Artique on (01223) 304676.

Deafy's island sounds

A UNIQUE take on Radio 4's Desert Island Discs comes to CB2 in Norfolk Street, Cambridge, on Saturday as part of Cambridge University's Festival of Ideas.

When Radio 4 comedian and actor Steve Day became hearing impaired at the age of 18, he could no longer listen to his favourite tunes. Now, thanks to digital technology, after 25 years he can hear them again. Following the format of the long-running radio show Desert Island Discs, Steve takes a comic look at seven tracks that have resonance in his life, showing his fantastic light touch with an anecdote, superb turns of phrase and talent for unforced self-deprecation.

The show garnered superb reviews at the Edinburgh Fringe. Chortle said: "Steve Day has ... created a delightful, personal show that is both laugh-out-loud funny, but also compelling and sensitive. A perfect festival show."

Deafy's Island Discs starts at 8pm. Tickets £5. Book at www.wegotickets.com/event/79566 or reserve them by calling 07889 176050. For more details visit www.custardcomedy.co.uk

THE SOCIAL NETWORK
certificate 12A 120m

ON July 21 this year, social networking site Facebook proudly welcomed its 500 millionth user to the online fold. It's a mind-boggling statistic, even more so when you consider that seven years ago, no-one had heard of the site. In less than a decade, an idea born in the hallowed corridors of Harvard University has quite literally taken over the world and changed the way we communicate.

Like all good ideas, the site has made its creators very wealthy but as Ben Mezrich's book The Accidental Billionaires chronicled, the turbulent history of Facebook led to not just one but two lawsuits.

Working from a screenplay by Aaron Sorkin, David Fincher employs a fractured chronology to dissect the jealousy and betrayal which underpinned the success of the site. The Social Network opens by introducing central protagonist Mark Zuckerberg (Jesse Eisenberg), a computer nerd whose lack of social skills become apparent as he is deservedly dumped by his girlfriend (Rooney Mara). In revenge, Mark spews bile in an online blog then creates a crude website called facemash.com, which racks up "22,000 hits in two hours" and brings the nerd to the attention of Divya Narendra (Max Minghella) and Winklevoss twins (Armie Hammer), who want Mark to program their internal social networking site called HarvardConnection. Soon after, Mark approaches friends Eduardo Saverin (Andrew Garfield), Dustin Moskovitz (Joseph Mazzello) and Chris Hughes (Patrick Mapel) with an almost identical idea. The whole campus excitedly logs on and the friends expand to Stanford and eventually across the Atlantic, before Sean Parker (Justin Timberlake), the entrepreneur behind Napster, becomes involved and offers Mark his advice. The Social Network is technically flawless, powered by Fincher's dazzling direction including a bravura rowing sequence at Henley Regatta set to a reworking of Grieg's In The Hall Of The Mountain King. Sorkin's screenplay is equally polished – so much so that characters speak without hesitation or pause for thought, which strains credibility, even at one of America's most revered seats of learning. Eisenberg's compelling, one-note performance fails to reveal any chinks of humanity beneath Zuckerberg's thick skin. Indeed, to the final frame, the character is an emotionally cold and unsympathetic loner, which leaves us with no-one to root for as the legal battle turns nasty. Garfield is much more likeable and when he vows revenge against Mark, seething, "I'm not coming back for 30 per cent, I'm coming back for everything," it's the closest we come to a rush of adrenaline.

Lost letters 36

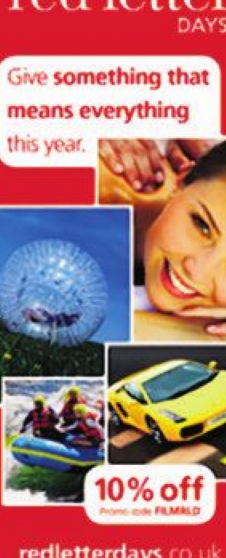

In each of these puzzles a famous or popular quotation fills the grid. The individual letters remain in their correct column, but have fallen out and are out of order. Reinsert them in the correct order to find the answer. Any punctuation is given in its own square.

This quotation is from Walter Bagehot.

Creating a natural look with your bulbs

If you've ever walked through a sea of bluebells in the woods in spring, or wondered at the beauty of an endless carpet of snowdrops under trees or drifts of purple crocuses peeping through the grass, you'll realise the value of naturalising bulbs.

Natural drifts of flowering bulbs are one of the most welcoming sights of spring, whether in dappled shade or in large stretches of lawn where they appear in their full glory in the brilliant sunshine.

In meadows, camassias and fritillaries poke their heads out beyond longer grass, while later in the year autumn crocus bloom under trees when everything else has faded.

Some gardeners choose to plant narcissi in their lawns to add a splash of colourful contrast in the spring sunshine and there are many varieties which are ideal for this job, including the dwarf types N. 'Hawera' and 'Tete a Tete'.

You can naturalise bulbs even if you don't have a big garden. Some bulbs will do well under the canopy of a mature shrub or even at the foot of a hedge or wall, but if you want a wildflower look choose bulbs with small, delicate-looking flowers, avoiding big, bold, brash double-flowered daffodils or anything that would look better in a more manicured, orderly garden.

by Hannah Stephenson

For a natural look, plant bulbs in random clumps and space them irregularly over the planting area, sticking to one type if you want drifts to maximise the effect. Avoid a geometric pattern at all costs. The traditional way is to drop a handful of bulbs on the ground and plant them where they fall.

To naturalise bulbs in grass, remember that you will need to wait at least six weeks after the last flowers have faded before cutting the grass, to allow the leaves to produce the food for the developing bulbs below ground, which will provide next year's display.

Plant the bulbs in an area where you'll be happy to leave the grass long for a few weeks while the leaves die down naturally.

When planting in grass, lift squares of turf with a spade, cutting around the turves to the required depth and then folding them back after planting and firming them down.

As a rule, bulbs need to be planted at least three times the depth of the bulb and spaced at least twice its diameter, as they need space to multiply without becoming overcrowded.

Planting a few clumps close to each other and scattering others a short way from the main colony will create a natural effect. If the grass is thin and the ground soft, you can use a bulb planter although I find these quite hard work if you are planting a lot of bulbs.

Good specimens for naturalising in grass include crocus, narcissi, muscari, camassia, erythronium, snowdrops, scilla and ornithogalum. Those which can do well under trees include Anemone blanda, winter aconite (eranthus), Chionodoxa luciliae and trillium.

Most tulips don't look their best naturalised in grass. Taller single varieties may look stunning for just one season but may need to be lifted and many will need replacing every year.

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT Storing apples and pears

Early apples and pears are best picked straight from the tree and eaten immediately as they don't keep well, while mid-season varieties rapidly lose flavour and texture so are again best eaten straight after picking. Only late varieties, harvested in October before the first frost, such as 'Sturmer Pippin', 'Newton Wonder' and 'Ashmead's Kernel', can last throughout the winter months.

The secret is to pick the fruit at the right time. Fruit is ripe when it comes away from the branch if twisted slightly. Pears shrivel when picked too early, and become woolly when picked too late.

BEAUTIFUL: snowdrops are among the bulbs that can help create a natural and welcoming look for your garden in spring.

Pick apples and pears carefully to avoid bruising them, otherwise they won't keep, and always harvest them in dry weather, picking all the fruits before the first frosts.

Examine apples carefully and put aside any damaged fruits for stewing, as they won't keep. The room where you store your apples should have a low, even temperature, good ventilation and a moist atmosphere. Cellars are better than attics, where temperatures vary and the atmosphere is drier.

Ideally, place apples in a cardboard tray lined with a sheet of newspaper, making sure they do not touch. Put them in a well-ventilated sheltered place for a few days so the fruit can dry out, then move them to their storage place. Check them regularly and remove any that are beginning to rot. Containers should allow air to circulate, so stacking crates, slatted wooden shelves or polystyrene trays are suitable.

Picking the right housemate can be tricky

ONE the UK's leading body language and behaviour experts, Judi James, has worked as body language expert on shows including The X-tra Factor, The Paul O'Grady Show and Big Brother's Little Brother. Below, she gives some expert tips on house sharing, including some of the best questions to ask a potential housemate.

House sharing can be great fun, but it can also be tricky at times. Harmony in the home is important, so if you're interviewing for a new flatmate, there are some things to consider.

There's no ideal in terms of numbers, but it's good to avoid two or three together as two housemates can create an intensely inwardly-focused and dependent situation and lead to falling-outs.

Three housemates of the same sex can be troublesome as it can lead to accusations of favouritism or 'ganging up' against one housemate. Two guys and one girl can be a great blend though as it works well as a pseudo-sibling group. Four (or even five) mixed-sex housemates can create a colony that is high on flexibility and the kind of non-intense rapport that helps avoid dangerous arguments and falling-out.

Most behaviour profiling shows four key motivational types and tempting though it is to select housemates who seem similar to yourself, a mix of personalities usually works well. Maybe you'll recognise your housemates in these four profiles:

1. One organizer and driver who will delegate and get things done (often the chef).
2. One empathist who is a good listener and supporter with a strong nurturing streak and who will not mind tidying and cleaning.
3. One logical thinker who will organise finances and paperwork.
4. One performer who amuses and entertains everyone and keeps the fun levels up.

Speed flat-mating is probably one of the worst ways to choose a new housemate as your decisions will likely be based on first impressions and this can lead to disaster! I would recommend speed flat-mating only to weed out the most obvious no-nos, like people with no means of income or a drug habit or dislike of pets/recycling etc, but to be open-minded about the remaining candidates.

Here are a few of the best questions to put to potential housemates:

1. What time do you get up in the morning?
2. What time do you go to bed?
3. Do you smoke?
4. How often and how would you clean a toilet?
5. What is the price of a large sliced loaf/jar of coffee?
6. What experience have you had of working in a team?

Hopefully, with these guidelines, you'll be on your way to ensuring your home is a happy one.

JUDI JAMES: Says potential housemates, like most people, fit into four different profiles

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.
- ☐ Schools.
- ☐ Professional Bodies/Trade Unions.
- ☐ Motoring organisations.
- ☐ Newsagent.
- ☐ Friends and relatives.

Latest GT-R ready for rollout

NISSAN has unveiled the enhanced 2011 Nissan GT-R, which is now available to order at Nissan High Performance Centres nationwide.

Since its debut at the Tokyo Motor Show in October 2007, the Nissan GT-R has enthralled its customers as the definitive accessible supercar. The 2011 Nissan GT-R has been developed under the theme of the 'World's best multi-performance and pleasure of responsive driving'. The exterior features more strength and stability, while the traditional creative flair associated with the GT-R's striking appearance has also been updated, to offer improved aerodynamics. A sportier interior complements the enhanced design.

THE GT-R: Untouchable.

Engine output is significantly improved to 524bhp, with the maximum torque of 612Nm from 3,200 to 6,000rpm. The engine cover is, enigmatically, painted red to illustrate its enhanced performance.

By adopting an ultra-low precious metal catalyst and an engine control module fitted with high-capacity micro-processors, cleaner emissions have been achieved. Fuel economy has also been improved by modifying the boost pressure of the turbocharger, valve timing and air mixture ratio along with larger diameter inlet pipes and a modified exhaust system.

SAVE mode is a newly-adapted system, replacing 'snow Mode', which optimises driving torque and modifies the gearshift schedule to improve fuel economy when driving on motorways or open roads. The features of Snow Mode are also retained.

Standing start performance can now be maximised through the use of R mode. To activate, the driver must select R mode, depress the brake whilst in gear, apply full throttle and release the brake as soon as possible. The system will monitor oil temperatures to ensure reliability is maintained and prevent further use if the temperatures rise above the maximum allowance.

To help control tight turning at slow speeds a new 2-Wheel drive mode will temporarily shift the car to 2-Wheel drive as long as the speed is below 6MPH and the steering wheel is turned more than half way.

With the new on the road price of £69,950 (incl 20 per cent VAT) GT-R still represents outstanding performance at a competitive price. The standard 'no extra cost' specification list remains as strong as always with Premium Connect HDD satellite navigation, Bose stereo system, iPod connectivity, hard drive music storage, Bluetooth phone connection, 20-inch alloy wheels, runflat tyres, and individual climate control air conditioning. Add that to the performance delivered from the V6 twin turbo through the GR6 twin clutch system, with the aid of the 4 wheel drive system, and the on the road price, the GT-R remains untouchable.

Vicki shows her love for 100 cars

SEXY LIST: Driving legend Vicki Butler-Henderson has dished up her favourite 100 fast cars in one highly enjoyable book.

VICKI BUTLER-HENDERSON knows cars. She has raced them, reviewed them and even driven them just for fun.

In her just-released new book she lists her all-time top 100 sexiest cars – and what cars they are! You'll find Lamborghini, Porsche, Bugatti, Alfa Romeo, Dodge, Ferrari, Lotus and many, many more of the most exciting drives in the world. Each one is reviewed, rated and put through its paces by the UK's number one female four-wheel journalist.

From the Lamborghini Diablo GT supercar to the Ford Capri, Vicki's sexiest 100 list covers a huge variety of makes and models. Some are obvious, but others less so, and that's what makes this such a great read. There are supercars, fun cars, great rides and monster cars, and all are discussed in Vicki's inimitable style.

The reasons for inclusion are interesting too: the Lamborghini Vicki taught her mum to drive (Murcielago), her favourite hot hatch (1989 VW Golf GTI), her wedding limousine (Maserati Quattroporte), her first test car in heels (Audi TT Roadster), her favourite supercar (you'll have to read the book!), her childhood hero car (Thomas Magnum's 308 GTS) – the list goes on and it adds up to a really interesting personalised century of automobiles.

100 Sexiest Cars is published by Carlton Books in hardback, £19.99.

GAS MOTORCYCLES: Charity fundraiser due on October 30.

Gas: Indulge your need for speed in a charitable way

GAS Motorcycles will be holding a huge fundraising event on October 30, in honour of the Essex Air Ambulance team and St Nicholas Hospice.

Events will include visits from heroes of the motorcycling world including Karl 'Bomber' Harris and 'General' Lee Johnston of Superbike and Supersport fame.

Also on site will be the Extreme Wheelie Machine, Tag Triumph Pit Lane girls, our in house Dyno, Oxford Products and delicious food and drink. During the event the store will be offering discounts on everything including parts, accessories and clothing.

Co-owner Michele Grice says: "As we are a family business, the emphasis of the day will be lots of fun for families and people of all ages, whilst supporting two very important charities. We chose the Air Ambulance team, partly because all of their funding comes from public donations, and partly because it is such an important charity for motorcyclists when accidents happen."

The shop, which has been open for two years this October, also stocks 125cc and 50cc bikes, and has an adjoining workshop for repairs, servicing and MOTs.

Visit Gas's end-of-season fun day on October 30, 10am-4pm at Unit 1-2 Boundary Court, Boundary Road, Haverhill.

For further information visit www.gasmoto.co.uk or call (01440) 768877.

Volvo announces prices for its latest V60 estate

VOLVO Car UK has announced prices for the all-new V60 sports wagon.

Available in four trim levels and with a wide choice of petrol or diesel engines, the V60 sports wagon will start from £23,145 for the 148bhp T3 ES model, rising to £37,895 for the flagship 300bhp T6 AWD SE Lux Geartronic Premium model. R-Design models, featuring more dynamic styling and chassis enhancements, are priced from £25,695.

Six engines will be available from launch – two diesels and four petrols. Entry into the range will be the D3 model, which generates 160bhp and 400Nm torque from its 2.0-litre diesel powerplant. Combined fuel use is 51.4mpg for the manual (46.3mpg in Geartronic) with CO2 emissions of 144g/km (manual).

Further up the range is the 202bhp D5, with 420Nm torque. Also available with either manual or Geartronic transmission, the 2.4-litre unit delivers a top speed of 143mph and can sprint from 0-60mph in 7.5 seconds. Fuel economy is an impressive 52.3mpg on the combined cycle (manual version) with CO2 emissions of 142g/km.

Petrol engines start with the 1.6-litre T3, featuring 148bhp and 240Nm torque and Start/Stop technology. Available only with a six-speed manual gearbox, the T3 will return up to 42.2mpg on the combined cycle and emits 156g/km CO2.

The flagship version is the all-wheel-drive T6 petrol model with Geartronic gearbox. Featuring a 300bhp 3.0-litre engine, the high-performance T6 returns up to 28.5mpg on the combined fuel economy cycle and has CO2 emissions of 237g/km. It can reach 60mph from a standstill in under six seconds and has a top speed of 155mph.

VOLVO'S NEW V60 SPORTS WAGON: From £25,695.

SETTING RECORDS IN 1,100-1,500cc CLASS: The Fabia vRS.

Skoda Fabia vRS breaks records

TO launch the start of its new series, hit Channel 5 motoring show Fifth Gear aimed for the record books and chose the stunning Skoda Fabia vRS as their weapon of choice.

Fifth Gear presenter Jonny Smith made full use of the Fabia vRS' standard 7-speed, twin-clutch gearbox and its 0-62mph time of just 7.3 seconds to break seven national records for time taken to cover 5km, 5 miles, 10km, 10 miles, 50km, 50 miles and 100km in its class at Millbrook Proving Ground's high speed bowl in September.

Thanks to its direct injection, super-charged and turbocharged engine, the Fabia vRS produces 180bhp from just 1.4-litres, perfect for smashing the MSA Class F British speed record for 1,100 to 1,500cc petrol-engined cars.

The Skoda Fabia vRS broke the records that have stood for more than 20 years thanks to its 139mph top speed, while Jonny Smith described it as "a car I could trust with my life", thanks to its standard six airbags, ESP (including ABS, MSR and ASR) and strong safety shell.

Despite its outstanding performance, the Fabia vRS achieves an equally astonishing 45.6mpg combined.

The Skoda Fabia vRS is available now from £15,700.

Prepare your car well and its resale value is boosted

CRIPPLING public spending cuts are set to hit British motorists hard, and a leading auction firm says this means it is now vital that private used car sellers get the best possible price for their motor.

Some drivers are losing a whopping £500 when it comes to selling a car, research by Manheim Auctions reveals, simply because they are failing to properly prepare the vehicle for sale.

"It's imperative motorists do everything they can to maximise what their car is worth," says Craig Mailey, Manheim's marketing director.

"Ensuring a car is clean and in the best condition possible will go a long way to getting the best resale price."

Manheim's study shows that one in 10 motorists fail to prepare their vehicle before they sell, and with every dent, scratch and scuff translating into cold, hard cash, sellers will find their car is worth less than they thought.

CAMBRIDGE VALET CENTRE: 'No one wants to buy a dirty car'.

Examples, says Mailey, include damaged alloy wheels, which could reduce a car's value by as much as £50 to £150 per wheel, and cracked headlights also impact on resale values by £75 to £150 per unit.

A damaged windscreen can also devalue a car by between £100 to £300, while poor-condition carpets and front-seat upholstery can lop between £100 and £350 off prices.

As for minor accident problems, such as dents, Mailey points out that these can hit a vehicle's value by up to £250 per panel. And don't forget documentation, he adds – a typical three-year-old car without full documentation and no service history could see as much as £200 to £500 knocked off the price.

"No one wants to buy a dirty car. For the best finishing touch, have your car professionally valeted – mobile damage-repair outfits can take care of most minor bodywork problems for a modest sum," Mailey concludes.

Simon Walters of Cambridge Valet Centre added: "When I first started in the trade I did work for a BMW dealership. After a full day's valeting we were advised that each vehicle would now raise up to an additional £2,000 extra on the forecourt due to the service we had supplied.

"A full valet including polishing and seat cleaning starts at £95 inclusive of VAT; this will heavily increase your chances of a quick and easy sale.

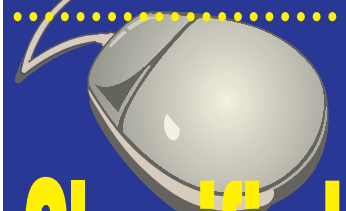

"A full interior clean and shampoo can make the world of difference when passing on your investment – and at a starting price of only £60 including VAT.

"Quite often an average door has four or five supermarket dents. Where these are in one panel we can generally offer a £60 plus VAT per panel price.

"Alloy wheel refurbishment can be as little as £60 plus VAT per wheel."

All of these services can ensure you will see maximum return when selling your vehicle. More details can be found at www.cambridgevaletcentre.com.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS SIGN...

You will see this logo displayed by people who sell, service or simply fill up cars, trucks and motorbikes. The logo tells you they are accredited members of the Retail Motor Industry Federation

It is extremely important to use a reputable dealer for buying either a new or used car.

When looking for a car, there are a number of things to look out for:

- A newly-registered car is sold with a full three year manufacturer warranty. But do read the small print. On used vehicles it is the dealer or a third party provider who supplies the warranty, probably between three and 12 months depending on the age and general condition of the car. RMIF members are obliged to provide a minimum level of warranty as a condition of their membership. However, the length of manufacturer warranties now offered on new vehicles mean that when you buy a used vehicle, it may still be covered by that warranty too.

- When comparing deals use the on-the-road price which manufacturers now recommend. This is made up of the basic ex-works price, value added tax, number plate, delivery charges, and road fund licence, and first registration fee.

Advertisement Sales Manager

Based at our Milton Keynes offices and working on the MKNews newspaper, website and associated niche products.

Salary: £25k-£30k basic, plus commission, company car and other benefits.

LSN Media is part of the Iliffe News and Media group and we publish market leading local newspapers in Beds, Bucks and Northants, alongside rapidly growing websites and a number of magazines and niche products.

We're looking for a talented and experienced Advertising Sales Manager to head up the commercial operations for the award winning MKNews newspaper in Milton Keynes. The right candidate will have a proven track record of achievement in selling local/regional advertising within press or broadcast media and will lead our commercial team of around 13 people whilst working closely with the Editor and his team. The successful candidate will be responsible for the continued growth of advertising volumes and revenues within the newspaper, websites and other publications.

Experience leading and managing an advertising sales team is essential as well as the ability to build excellent working relationships quickly with key clients and our local public sector advertisers.

You'll also be responsible for helping to formulate local sales strategies to maximise all advertising revenue streams, as well as producing accurate revenue forecasts.

This is an exciting time to join our business. Revenues are improving and the newspaper has a tremendous reputation locally that we need to continue to build upon.
If you think you fit the bill and you're energetic and creative, please send your CV and a covering letter to alison.lloyd@lsnmedia.co.uk

In return the right candidate can expect an excellent benefits package that includes ongoing training, 25 days holiday per annum, pension (after qualifying period), car or car allowance and a competitive salary with realistic bonus scheme.

As a member of Iliffe News & Media we also publish weekly newspapers and websites across Herts, Beds, Bucks, Cambs, Essex and the Midlands.

It is the company's policy to employ the best qualified, personnel and provide equal opportunity for the advancement of employees including promotion and training and not to discriminate against any person because of sex, race, pregnancy, disability, marital or family status, ages, sexual orientation, religious beliefs or trade union memberships.

Iron forges path to victory

Sawston Utd 2 Thurlow 4

Cambridge & Dist Colts League, under-14C MASON Iron hit four first-half goals to set up Thurlow's win.

Ross Morley set up the first, and No 2 came courtesy of Callum Williamson's hard work. Two more followed, and it was 4-0 at half time.

Thurlow, possibly guilty of thinking their job was done, came out for the second half lacking the fire they had previously shown.

They failed to convert too many good chances, and Sawston pulled one back with a contentious penalty, which Darren Cooley got his hands to but could not keep out.

With the Thurlow team feeling rather aggrieved the shape was lost for a few minutes, allowing Sawston the opportunity to score a second.

But Thurlow cleared their heads and made sure the result was not in doubt.

West Wrating 2 Priory Parkside 3

Cambridge & Dist Colts League Cup, under-15 second round

FOR the second time this month, the workmanlike Priory side from St Neots ensured the Reds paid the price for not capitalising on having the majority of possession.

After trailing 1-0 at the break, Wilson danced down the left and found Percy, who cut inside and chipped Wrating level.

And when man-of-the-match Kieron O'Neill scored a cracker 10 minutes into the second half to give the Reds a 2-1 lead, everything pointed to a comfortable home win.

Wilson then blazed over as Priory were shaken, but to their credit they broke away to grab a well-worked equaliser.

The Reds still held the upper hand and when Burley was fouled, Pinker looked to have scored, but his free kick went inches over with the keeper beaten.

The Reds then imploded when a stray pass as they were attacking was seized on and a lightning break gave Priory the lead.

The last 10 minutes were a frenzy as Wrating piled on the pressure. Percy and Pinker went close and Zak Ollington's shot rolled inches wide, but there was no way back.

St Ives Rgrs 0 Kedington 5

Cambridge & Dist Colts League, Under-13C IT was well into the first half before the deadlock was broken, with Tye Alleyne and Jamie Lingard combining for captain Jason Moore to slot into the bottom corner.

Kedington's second started at the back when George Mustoe won a crucial header and Ash Wyatt took the ball downfield, his cross falling nicely for man-of-the-match Conor Rankin to fire home from distance.

Kedington finished the half with a genuine team effort, starting with keeper Jack Davis and going through Cameron Larkin, Aaron Thorne, Cameron Kidd and Moore for Alleyne to finish off.

Kitted out: Castle Camps Youth in their shirts sponsored by Rubiks Cube.

CP

Alleyne got his second after the break, and the last was a spectacular solo effort as Rankin beat five defenders before firing across the keeper into the far corner.

Warden Wdrs 2 Haverhill Rov 3

Cambridge & Dist Colts League, under-14D HAVERHILL got their season up and running with a deserved victory in Saffron Walden. After a goalless first half, Wanderers took the lead, only for man of the match Dean Jennings to equalise.

Warden got their noses back in front, but Jennings again levelled and the winner came straight from a corner by Harry Eden.

Haverhill Rov 12 Ramsey 0

Cambridge & Dist Colts League, under-13A HAVERHILL put the Ramsey goal under instant pressure, with both Trowbridge and Tofts hitting the woodwork in the opening stages.

Charlie Smith then opened the scoring, and it was not long before he added his second. Will Bailey got the third and Billy Bush added a fine individual goal, before Bailey and Tofts completed the first half scoring.

The second half was a repeat of the first as Rovers continued to dominate, adding six more goals through Bailey (3), Bush (2) and Smith.

West Wrating 3 SASS 2

Tesco Youth Cup Under-13, first round WRATTING'S early pressure paid off when Scott Bishop scored, and it remained 1-0 until half time.

Wrating should have extended their lead as waves of pressure came to nothing, and SASS equalised with their first meaningful attack.

But Charlie Ellam's through ball allowed Ellis Wiffen to restore the advantage, and Charlie Ripp's shot from distance made it 3-1.

Strikers pulled another goal back to make for a nervy last few seconds.

Willingham Wolves 1 West Wrating 1

Cambridge & Dist Colts League, Under-14B WRATTING came away with a deserved point after an entertaining match. The opener came after a sprint down the right from Mark Coulson, who crossed with precision for Earle Lambert to direct his header to the top left-hand corner.

Aaron Millar, who shared man of the match with Coulson, was in fine form in goal, making two outstanding saves in the first half, but he was powerless to stop Wolves' equaliser after the break.

Thurlow 3 Mepal 0

Cambis Mini League, under-10 Cup

WILL Wilson scored with a speculative shot in the first half, and Toby Catley got on the end of a free kick to volley home a second after the break, before Finley Plant completed the scoring.

Tryscorer Craig finds his range

HAVERHILL under-eights lost their unbeaten record but won two other matches as Castle Playing Fields hosted a tournament also involving Hadleigh, Witham and Wendens Ambo.

Haverhill took to the field against Witham and found themselves behind almost immediately before hitting back with a debut try from Craig Martin Gowing, followed by scores from Hayden Lawrence, Oliver Loveridge and John Adams as Haverhill ran out winners by five tries to two.

Captain Luke Wheeler continued to impress in defence against a strong Hadleigh team while Theo Darvill, Marshall MacKay and Dylan Valente linked well in attack to put speedy winger Charlie Harvey through for the first try followed by further scores from Adams, Lawrence and Martin Gowing as Haverhill ran out 4-2 winners.

Oscar Harwood and Alex North showed good pace attacking the line in the final game against a talented Wendens side. Martin Gowing opened the scoring, followed by a second from Lawrence as Haverhill led 2-1 at half time, only for the visitors to score three tries in the second half to ending up 4-2 winners.

The under-11s started well in their first game against Wendens as composure in defence by Tyler Neill and Jake North kept the visitors at bay. Haverhill's Brandon McKay scored a well-executed try, which he then converted to get the scoreboard moving.

Some missed tackles in midfield allowed the visitors to score three times in quick succession. In the dying moments, Oliver Cooper was held up over the line as the match ended 3-1 to the visitors.

Good work from the Hadleigh backs in the next match proved tricky for Haverhill to handle, and only imposing play by Kit Browne and determined tackling from newcomer Liam Quinn kept the score reasonable.

Oliver Foley showed his potential at times with some powerful runs through the centre but, despite awesome tackling from Josh Moseley, Hadleigh won by five tries to nil.

A deflated Haverhill took on a Witham side comprising 12 forwards, and from the start the home side struggled with the physical presence of Witham as they scored at will, despite determined tackling from Charlie Brown.

Moseley's efforts were finally rewarded with a consolation try for Haverhill.

■ From back page won nearest-the-pin prizes and Karen Wilby and Markwell longest drive accolades.

The awards ceremony, auction and raffle was hosted by Paul Wilby, PGA head professional at Haverhill. The awards were presented by competition main sponsor Neil McMaster, general manager of Culina Logistics Limited, and the Smithett Perpetual Trophy was presented by Patrick O'Flanagan representing Ivan Smithett.

The event was a great success, thanks to the enthusiastic participation from the Sturmer Village Committee and Volunteers.

Quartet scoop prize at charity tournament

■ Lady captain Sally Price and Karen Wilby won the Ladies Daily Mail Foursomes with a score of 32 points, five ahead of Doreen Darbey and Denise Walker, with Sheila Price and Theresa Spittle third with 26p points. Price and Wilby will represent Haverhill in the next round, due to be played next year.

■ The men's midweek medal was a very closely fought competition, with each division winner scoring a nett 68, Roger Hartley emerging the overall winner on countback.

The full results were: Division One: 1 Gary Liddle 71-3-68, 2 Kevin Eldred 77-8-69, 3 Andy Fish 77-5-72. Division Two: 1 Roger Metcalf 87-19-68, 2 Chris Williams 89-19-70, 3 Steve Piotrowski 86-16-70. Division Three: 1 Roger Hartley 92-24-68, 2 Dick Sisman 91-21-70, 3 Geoff Dorkins 94-21-73.

DALTON O'Brien's eighth-minute strike was only worth one point as Haverhill were made to pay for wasting a host of chances against Felixstowe & Walton.

The home side peppered the visitors' goal for the majority of the match, but the likes of Stuart Kingham, Paul Abbott and Louis Harper, who all went close, could not get the all-important second goal.

And the travelling team celebrated wildly after they grabbed an injury-time leveller to leave Haverhill manager Peter Betts distraught.

"We bossed the game for 90 minutes, had 80 per cent of the possession and had 18 shots on goal, but we couldn't kill the game off," he said.

"We've only got ourselves to blame as we couldn't get the second goal.

"They had one chance before half time when we switched off defensively and they hit the post, but that was all they had before they equalised.

"They celebrated like they'd won a cup final at the end. We'll learn from it."

Pilgrim quits with blast for players

BRIAN Pilgrim has quit as Hundon boss following their 2-1 defeat at home to Newmarket reserves in the Kershaw Premier Cup.

Pilgrim said he had lost his enthusiasm for the role and blamed a lack of commitment from his squad.

He left Hundon after leading them to third place in their first season in the Premier Division in 2008, but returned to the helm last term.

But the club is now second from bottom in the league and yet to win a game this season.

Pilgrim said: "I just woke up on Sunday morning and said 'enough is enough'.

"I'd had a week where only three first-team players turned up for training and then four players said on the day of the game they couldn't make it.

"It just wasn't worth the hassle because you don't get any help from the players.

"It's not about winning, even when we've lost and put in a good performance I'm upbeat, but a lot of little things have built up and I've been miserable all the time, which isn't like me.

"I've run out of ideas and I can't do anything more for them any more because they weren't giving me the commitment.

"That made me lose interest and then they lose even more interest.

"Rod Gaffan (reserves manager) is taking charge and it will help to have someone new in to freshen things up. I still feel there's a good chance he'll keep them up."

Hundon went behind after just a minute to Darren O'Leary's penalty when Carl Saxby was adjudged to have been fouled by home keeper Chris Price.

Darren Payne levelled for the hosts midway through the second half by connecting with Jamie Mayes' free kick.

But O'Leary ensured the Jockeys' place in the quarter-finals at home to either Over or Cottenham with his second goal 10 minutes from time.

Hope in swipe at referee

GAVIN Hope expressed his disappointment with the referee as Haverhill lost 41-15 at Ipswich YM in the first round of the London & SE Junior Vase.

They went ahead through a Kieren Ewens try, which he converted himself and then added a penalty for a 10-0 lead.

But Ipswich hit back with two contentious tries, before Mike Woods got a score for Haverhill. However the hosts scored again to make it 17-15 at the break.

Ipswich went on to dominate in the second half.

"The first half we played probably some of our best rugby for a year with a really good start," said Hope. "But then the referee ruined the game. He was really inexperienced and, personally, I don't think he should have been refereeing a game like that.

"He missed a lot of stuff and it led to tries – three knock-ons, a tap free kick. He just missed a hell of a lot and it deflated the team a little bit.

"The forwards dominated scrums and line-outs and shoved them round the park, and every time the backs got the ball they threatened."

He added: "All I can say is that it wasn't a league game as it would have been more frustrating."

Charity is the winner

PAUL Wilby, Karen Wilby, Mark Barrett and Roger Toone were the winning team at the ninth Sturmer Charity Golf Tournament at Haverhill Golf Club.

The fourball better ball stableford format proved challenging when the initial overcast weather eventually turned into a steady rain, but the quartet emerged triumphant with 78 points.

In second place were the Sarand team of Chris Evans, Andy Howard, Ian Evans and Howard Bliss with 75 points, while third went to the IBA Wealth Management foursome of Mike Tokely, Aaron Tokely, Ryan Kent and Stephen Pilcher with 74.

Nick Markwell walked off with a cash prize after winning the putting competition. Jo Welch and Ian Jones
